2017

- 94 Pts. – James Suckling, Dec. 21, 2018

“This is wild, offering plums, spices and brown tea. Violets, too. Full-bodied, tannic and very structured. Yet, it turns polished and velvety at the finish. Gorgeous. Drink or hold.”

2016

- 91 Pts. ‘CELLAR SELECTION’ - Wine Enthusiast, March 2018

“This estate is named for the Romans who originally planted vines here. With touches of wood aging giving spice and toast along with rich, juicy black-plum fruits, this is a wine to age. It will be best from 2019.”

2015

- 92 Pts. James Suckling, Feb. 11, 2017

“This is really pretty with flowers, berries, stones and rose granite. Medium-to full-bodied, super tight and polished. Ripe fruit yet it's all in balance. About one year in two-year-old oak barrels. Drink or hold.”

- 92 Pts. Wine Enthusiast, March 2017

“From five different parcels in Moulin-à-Vent, this cru wine is a structured representative of the appellation. With some wood aging, the wine has gained extra richness to add to the generous black currant and berry fruits. Drink this concentrated wine from 2019. “

2014

- 90 Pts. Wine Enthusiast, December 1, 2015

“The bright cherry-red color shows how young this wine is. It is firm, still full of its youthful tannic character. Dense and solid, it has great juicy acidity, layers of red berries with more weight coming from dark plum flavors. It needs aging; drink from 2017.”
