2018

- 94-95 Pts. James Suckling, Feb. 18, 2019

“This shows fantastic potential already with super richness and length. Lots of crushed stones, flowers and dark fruit. Medium to full body, integrated and firm tannins and a long, flavorful finish. Hints of asphalt and tar.”

2017

- 93 Pts. James Suckling, Dec. 21, 2018

“Crushed stones and dark berries with some dried-lavender undertones. Medium-bodied, very firm and chewy with lots of tannins, but they are polished and pretty. Groomed style to this. Drink or hold.”

2016

- 93 Pts. James Suckling, Feb. 22, 2018

“Lots of leaves, meat, and savory undertones here. Medium body and very polished tannins with a spice and cedar undertone. Linear and racy. Drink now or hold.”

- 90 Pts. – Wine Advocate, Jan. 2017

“The 2016 Moulin A Vent Domaine du Pourpre has a clean and pure bouquet with ample black cherry and raspberry coulis scents, a hint of blood orange in the background. The palate is well balanced with juicy, sappy red fruit on the entry, good grip in the mouth and a dash of spice on the persistent finish. Give this a year or two in bottle—it should repay you..”

2015

- 94 Pts. James Suckling, Feb. 11, 2017

“Strawberries and rose powder on the nose. Medium-bodied, firm and silky. Hints of spices and cream. Light pepper pods. Medium body, firm and integrated pretty tannins and a subtle finish. Drink now or hold.”

- 90 Pts. – Vinous, Jan. 2017

“Lurid ruby. Smoke- and spice-accented dark berries, licorice, musky earth and a hint of violet on the deeply perfumed nose. Sappy, fleshy and broad on the palate, offering concentrated boysenberry and bitter cherry flavors that show no rough edges and turn sweeter with air. In an ample style but not lacking for energy. Finishes sweet, floral and long, with just a trace of fine-grained tannins.”

2014

- 91 pts. – Wine Enthusiast – December 1, 2015

- 90 Pts – Vinous, August 2016
